THE MASTER BLACK BELT

The highest level of Lean Six Sigma expertise

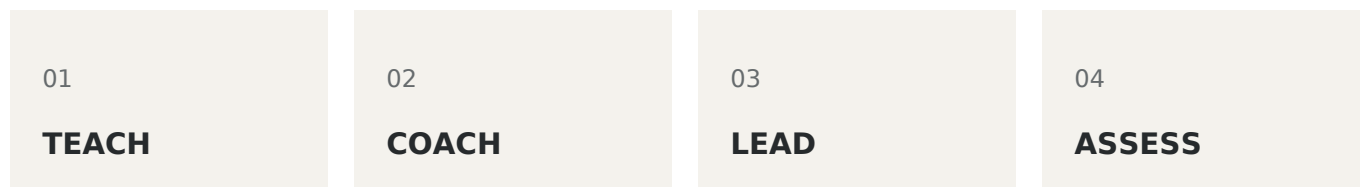

THE PROFESSIONAL ROLE

Lean Six Sigma professionals improve quality, efficiency and organisational performance. The belt system progresses from White and Yellow Belt through Green and Black Belt to Master Black Belt.

Master Black Belts combine technical mastery with advanced teaching, assessment and coaching skills. They train and certify practitioners at different belt levels, mentor Black Belts, and may lead improvement functions or establish their own consulting and training businesses.

WHAT MAKES THIS LEVEL DIFFERENT?

The difference is not additional statistics or more Lean tools: candidates are expected to have acquired those foundations at Black Belt level. This programme focuses on the ability to teach, coach, lead and assess others.

ENTRY REQUIREMENTS

Applicants must hold a Lean Six Sigma or Six Sigma Black Belt certification and have at least two years of relevant experience in project execution, project management or a managerial role. A good command of English is required, as all coaching is in English.

Applicants who do not yet hold a Black Belt may first enrol in the academy's Black Belt programme.

Applied learning. Demonstrated competence.

PRACTICAL PORTFOLIO ASSESSMENT

Instead of a multiple-choice examination, candidates complete eight practical assignments designed to demonstrate their teaching, coaching and assessment abilities.

EXAMPLES OF ASSIGNMENTS

Record a five-minute instructional video; write an essay on conflict management; design a Green Belt examination.

FLEXIBLE STUDY & COACHING

The programme is self-paced and based on the book The Lean Six Sigma Master Black Belt Educator. Some candidates complete the work in one week; others take longer. Two individual online coaching sessions of 60 minutes each are included.
